Art Unit: 1794

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kamiya et al (EP 1082907).

Kamiya et al teach a milk product comprising a milk product that has been heat treated and has a dissolved oxygen concentration of 2 ppm or less (see entire document, especially claims 1, 2, and 4).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kamiya et al (EP 1082907).

Kamiya et al disclose a process for treating milk and milk products comprising decreasing the dissolved oxygen concentration by treatment with nitrogen gas to reduce the dissolved oxygen concentration to 2 ppm or less and heat treating to sterilize as is claimed (see entire document, especially claims 1, 2, and 4).

The claims differ as to the specific recitation of heat treatment prior to decreasing the oxygen content.

In the absence of a showing to the contrary, the time in which the product is heat treated is merely a matter of choice and well-with the skill of the art. Applicant attaches no criticality to the heat step and at most it appears to be no more than conventional.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to heat treat prior to nitrogen treatment as the time of heat treatment is conventional and well-within the skill of the art. Applicant is using known components and process steps for their art-recognized function to obtain no more than expected results.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Applicant's argument as to time of heat treatment is addressed above.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
